BIO

Born in Canton, Ohio, Joe Vitale Jr. is the son of legendary veteran Rockn' Roll Drummer Joe Vitale. He has spent the bulk of his life growing up on the road with such acts as Joe Walsh, Crosby Stills & Nash, Dan Fogelberg, The Eagles, and many others. Joe Jr. started writing his first solo album a few years ago and is in the final stages of completing the project. The uniqueness of Joe's sound derives from his use of Classic Rock and Industrial influences. The best way to think of Joe's sound is "The Who" meets "Nine Inch Nails".

Joe Vitale Jr. is not only a multi-instrumentalist (Guitar, Drums, Vocals, Keyboards, Bass, etc.) but is also a digital audio engineer. Over the past 8 years Joe has been working for Sony Media Software creating loop libraries (Latin Percussion, Junkyard Rhythms, Organ Donor, and the recently released Vital Drums: The Vitale Collection) for ACID as well as doing the digital audio editing work on the 2005' Stephen Stills' album "Man Alive". The work completed on that album won Stephen Stills a Humanitarian award from Unicef for the song "Feed the People".

This past January Joe Vitale Jr. presented at the 2007 and 2008 NAMM show as a key speaker for Sony describing work done on several music videos directed by Joe Vitale Jr. Currently, Joe is finalizing his album and getting ready to release his first debut CD (Summer 2008). If you would like to receive up-to-date information on this album please feel free to join Joe's Free official Newsletter.

As well as performing, Joe Vitale Jr. also speaks on many topics regarding the Music Industry, Record Labels, Music Video Production, Music Marketing, Promotion, Audio Engineering, Mastering, Digital Editing and other related topics. If you would like to book Joe Vitale Jr. for a speaking clinic go to www.joevitalejr.com and use the contact field to book a speaking session.
